

Math Is

Math is a thermometer
when I'm deciding to wear my coat or not.

Math is a stick of butter, 3/4 cup of flour and 4 ounces of chocolate.

Math is how many doctors recommend vitamin C so should I take it? Or should he?

Math is time for school
a dime,
a rule.

Math is measuring the height of a tree
without a ladder.

(Math is "There's no one home to take your call,
please leave a message".

Math is 'are we there yet'?

It's how and why.

Math is what's the score
and could you play that note a little faster?

Math is too soon, too late, too big, too far.

Math is a strategy, a table, a graph, a map
And it's how many candles on a birthday cake!)

Math is too late, too far, too big, too soon.

It's how fast can you play that snappy tune.

Math is a strategy, a table, a graph.

I suppose it has to do with spots on a giraffe.

Math is are we there yet, and how and why.

Math is a way to measure the sky.

Math is "there's no one home to take your call..."

Math is who's in the middle and who's in a muddle.

Can you find the symmetry of a mud puddle?
